FRIDAY, APRIL 5	3:30 PM	Almar Tishenko	The Bible presents a clear picture of what a godly man is, a man who pursues courage, faithfulness, and wisdom.	Davy Williams	Christians are to keep the Sabbath Day holy for three reasons: to honor God's creation of the Sabbath, to honor God's Old Testament command of the Sabbath, and to honor Jesus' New Testament teachings on the Sabbath.
	4:15 PM	Rebekah Bursese	Christians should seek to be heavenly minded by regularly reading God's word, participating in Christian fellowship, meditating on God's creation, and reading for edification.	Samuel Schurter	In order to be biblical leaders, Christians ought to pursue courage, responsibility, and sacrifice.
	5:00 PM	MingMei Szymanowski	All Christians should fast because it cultivates fervent repentance, humble reliance, and earnest petition.	Gwenyth Tate	Christians can fight for joy by reading in Scripture, praying to God, and confessing the truth.
	5:45 PM	Micah Lundberg	Christians should sing God-exalting music as a part of their daily worship because we are commanded to sing, because it promotes memory, and because it engages our affections.	Addison Schnell	The harmony of Medieval cosmology should influence modern Christians by how the Medievals ordered, what they valued, and who they praised.
	6:30 PM	Josten McEachran	The U.S. was founded on a Christian worldview, as seen in the founding documents' assumptions about creation, fall, and redemption.	Amelia Garriques	To be human means we are created in God's image, and this implies three things: we are created male and female, we are created to exercise dominion, and we are created to communicate.
	7:15 PM	Courtney Nelson	In order to restore community, we must apply biblical conflict resolution by glorifying God, getting the log out of our own eye, gently restoring, and going and being reconciled.	Ethan King	Christians must be honorable because God commands it, modernity rejects it, and our culture needs it.
SATURDAY, APRIL 6	8:30 AM	Noah Clark	American society would be greatly improved by restoring the hospitality, respect, and reputation seen in the Homeric view of honor.	Lucy Jones	Christians should read novels because of how they dignify lives, reflect various cultures, and shape moral imagination.
	9:15 AM	Izak Hall	Christians must pursue holiness by upholding truth, taking action, and worshiping God.	Matthew Tallman	The modern American view of masculinity is flawed because of three contradictory assumptions: egalitarianism, abdication, and hyper-masculinity. God's word answers these with distinction of gender, the image of God, and service to others.
	10:00 AM	Kate DeRuyter	Christian women should strive to be modest because modesty increases one's capacity to surrender, receive, and give.	Isabella Carter	Christian freedom benefits society and its people more than non-Christian freedom for three reasons: Christian freedom tells people their true purpose, cultivates a love for others, and makes people responsible.
	10:45 AM	Isaac Rickert	To rightly reverence God, a Christian must have respect for their authorities, for their peers, and for the law.	Morgan Kahabka	Christians should prepare for death in three ways: first, by understanding mourning, second, by gaining understanding of the afterlife, and third, by growing their relationship with the Lord.
	11:30 AM	Ethan Reade	The constitutional monarchy is a valuable form of government in the modern era because the Lord rules as a king, the monarchy protects the people, and the monarchy effectively addresses challenges.	Jason Fox	In The Lord of the Rings, J.R.R. Tolkien extols the value of the journey by highlighting three fruits the journey produces: friendship, perseverance, and wisdom.
	12:15 PM	Caleb Van Horn	When Christians properly understand and apply God's Providence, they live fulfilling and impactful lives, as illustrated by the lives of John Paton, Brother Andrew, and Jim Elliot.
